THE OPEN TECHNIQUE GUIDE

“YOUR BODY SPEAKS BEFORE YOUR MOUTH DOES.”

UNDERSTANDING OPEN

O Occupy space   P Project voice   E Eye contact   N Natural smile

KEY POINTS

- Stand with feet shoulder-width apart.
- Keep your arms slightly away from your body.
- Take up more physical space to project confidence.
- Don't hunch or try to make yourself smaller.
- Speak from your gut, not your throat.
- Use a clear, steady tone.
- Avoid speaking too quickly or with an upward inflection.
- Maintain steady eye contact during conversations.
- Hold gaze until the other person looks away first.
- When approaching, make eye contact early and maintain it.
- Don't stare blankly; keep your gaze engaged and alive.
- Cultivate a genuine, warm smile that reaches your eyes.

Remember: OPEN body language signals courage and confidence, making you instantly more attractive to women. Practice this technique daily to make it second nature.

TROUBLESHOOTING

- PITFALL 1: Feeling self-conscious about taking up space
Why it happens: You've been conditioned to make yourself smaller to avoid attention.
Solution: Remind yourself that occupying space is your right as a man. Start in private spaces, gradually expanding your presence in public.
- PITFALL 2: Voice sounds unnatural when trying to project
Why it happens: You're used to speaking from your throat, not your diaphragm.
Solution: Practice deep breathing exercises daily. Speak as if you're trying to reach someone across the room, but without shouting.
- PITFALL 3: Maintaining eye contact feels uncomfortable
Why it happens: You've been conditioned to view strong eye contact as confrontational.
Solution: Practice holding eye contact with strangers for progressively longer periods. Start with 1 second, then 2, then 3.

VERBAL SKILLS: SAYING EXACTLY WHAT YOU MEAN

“DIRECTNESS CUTS THROUGH CONFUSION. STATE YOUR INTENTIONS CLEARLY, AND WATCH HER ATTRACTION AND RESPECT FOR YOU SOAR.”

KEY PRINCIPLES

- Be clear and assertive about your intentions.
- Don't hide behind excuses or hints.
- Show courage by expressing your interest directly.

EXAMPLES OF DIRECT VS. INDIRECT COMMUNICATION

- Indirect (Weak): “Hey, I was wondering if maybe you'd like to grab a coffee sometime?”
- Direct (Strong): “I'd love to take you out for coffee. Let's meet at [place] tomorrow at 7.”
- Indirect: “Do you come here often?”
- Direct: “I saw you from across the room and had to come introduce myself. I'm [Your Name].”

TEMPLATE PHRASES FOR EXPRESSING INTEREST

- “I find you incredibly attractive, and I'd like to get to know you better.”
- “You're the most interesting person I've met tonight. I want to take you out.”
- “I'm really enjoying our conversation, and I'd like to continue it over dinner.”

TIPS FOR MAINTAINING AN ASSERTIVE TONE

- Speak from your diaphragm, not your throat.
- Use a steady, confident tone.
- Avoid ending statements like questions.
- Don't apologize for your interest or desires.

Remember: Direct communication demonstrates courage and high self-esteem, which are extremely attractive to women.

TROUBLESHOOTING

- PITFALL 1: Defaulting to indirect communication when nervous
Why it happens: Fear of rejection makes you seek “safer” options.
Solution: Memorize direct phrases like “I find you attractive and want to get to know you.” Use these as your default, especially when nervous.
- PITFALL 2: Softening your statements with qualifiers
Why it happens: You’re trying to appear “nice” or non-threatening.
Solution: Eliminate phrases like “kind of,” “sort of,” or “maybe” from your vocabulary when expressing interest. State your intentions clearly: “I want to take you out,” not “Maybe we could go out sometime?”
- PITFALL 3: Apologizing for your interest
Why it happens: You’ve been conditioned to think your desires are a burden.
Solution: Remind yourself that your interest is a compliment to her. Replace apologies with confident statements: “I’m glad I came over to talk to you,” instead of “Sorry for bothering you.”
